About the Different Intelligences

ANALYTICAL DOMAIN: Ways of analyzing knowledge by incorporating data into existing schema.
- LOGICAL/MATH - learning through reasoning and problem solving.
- MUSICAL/RHYTHMIC - learning through patterns, rhythms and music. This includes not only auditory learning, but the identification of patterns through all the senses.
- NATURALIST - learning through classification, categories and hierarchies. The naturalist intelligence picks up on subtle differences in meaning. It is not simply the study of nature; it can be used in all areas of study

INTERACTIVE DOMAIN: Learning through self-expression and exploration of one’s environment.
- VERBAL/LINGUISTIC - learning through the spoken and written word.
- INTERPERSONAL - learning through interaction with others. Not the domain of people who are simply "talkative" or "overly social", rather this intelligence promotes collaboration and working cooperatively with others.
- BODILY/KINESTHETIC - learning through interaction with one’s environment. This intelligence is not the domain of "overly active" learners, rather it promotes understanding through concrete experience.

INTROSPECTIVE DOMAIN: Affective learning requiring an emotive connection to one’s own experiences and beliefs.
- VISUAL/SPATIAL - learning visually and organizing ideas spatially. Seeing concepts in action in order to understand them. The ability to "see" things in one's mind in planning to create a product or solve a problem.
- INTRAPERSONAL - learning through feelings, values and attitudes. This is a decidedly affective component of learning through which students place value on what they learn and take ownership for their learning.
